

Michael Bretthauer is Professor of Medicine at the University of Oslo and Gastroenterologist at Oslo University Hospital. He is an Associate Editor of Annals of Internal Medicine. Dr. Bretthauer is head of the Clinical Research Center, Department of Transplantation Medicine at Oslo University Hospital.

Michael Bretthauer received his MD in 1996 from the University of Göttingen, Germany, and his PhD from the University of Oslo in 2004. He is board certified in internal medicine and gastroenterology. His main clinical activities are in gastrointestinal endoscopy. Dr. Bretthauer's main research interests include clinical trials and clinical epidemiology. He is chairing several large-scale international trials in colorectal cancer screening and surveillance, such as the Nordic-European Initiative on Colorectal Cancer and the European Polyp Surveillance trials. Dr. Bretthauer has served as an associate editor at the Norwegian Medical Journal and as editorial fellow and CME editor at The New England Journal of Medicine.

Mette Kalager is Professor of Medicine at the University of Oslo and Researcher at Oslo University Hospital. She is an Associate Editor of Journal of the Norwegian Medical Association. Dr. Kalager is head of the Clinical Effectiveness Research Group, Institute of Health and Society at University of Oslo and Department of Transplantation Medicine at Oslo University Hospital.

Mette Kalager received her MD in 1996 from the University of Oslo, Norway, and her PhD from the University of Oslo in 2012. After her internship she worked in general practice and surgery. Dr. Kalager's main research interests include clinical trials, epidemiology and public health. She is involved in several large-scale international trials in colorectal cancer screening and surveillance, and has recently written a book about Proportionality in Health Crisis. Dr. Kalager serves on the Board of the French Institute du Cancer and is the elected leader of the Norwegian Medical Research Society.

«The Future of Cancer Screening»

The lecture will discuss the benefits and harms of cancer screening for individuals, and for society and decision makers for the most commonly used screening tests for breast, colorectal, prostate, cervical, skin and lung cancer.

Join the lecture on Thursday, 21 March 2024 at 4:00 pm (CET)

on-site at Mittelstrasse 43, room 320